

Join the California Air Resources Board ... and make a difference!

Would you like to be part of a team that strives for global leadership in climate change and air quality? Then the California Air Resources Board (ARB) is the place to be!

Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger signed into law the Global Warming Solutions Act of 2006. This landmark bill authorizes a first-in-the-world comprehensive program of regulatory and market mechanisms to achieve real, quantifiable, and cost-effective reductions of greenhouse gases. The Act requires ARB to develop the regulations and market mechanisms that will ultimately reduce California's greenhouse gas emissions by 25 percent by 2020.

ARB is actively recruiting individuals with science, engineering and math majors that are interested in achieving these goals. Current California State employees who have related experience and can transfer are encouraged to apply for job openings. Non State employees who are registered seniors in a recognized academic institution or have a bachelor's degree in physical, biological or environmental sciences, mathematics, economics, or related fields are encouraged to participate in our open continuous testing (which consists of a supplemental application). Existing State employees who meet the minimum qualifications are also encouraged to apply. The following links provide instructions and forms necessary to participate in an exam:

The link below provides information on job openings which are primarily located in Sacramento and El Monte (Southern California):

NOTE: Non State employees must compete in an examination in order to obtain eligibility on an employment list. All hiring decisions are based on a person's eligibility on the employment list which is established through written examination, supplemental application, and/or personal interview.
